

South African lighting design studio Mema Designs creates unique products using woven aluminium mesh fabric.

A collaborative venture, developed over several years by business partners Ari Geva and Sian Eliot, their exquisite lighting pieces are finely crafted and could be described as 'jewellery for architectural spaces'.

Their combined fifty years experience in industrial design and electrical engineering is a great foundation for an otherwise extremely artistic collaboration.

Situated in the city of Johannesburg, the Mema Designs studio is the perfect place to bring together their art, craft and engineering practices.

"Our commitment to the project is to make beautiful and inspiring objects which lift peoples' spirits and minds. A sense of adventure, determination and playfulness has carried us through the years of experimentation and learning to result in a truly unique process and series of products.

Please share in our experience, by enjoying the results as much as we do!"
